SUMMARY

I am a frontend developer who is now diving into backend development. I have a strong grasp of frontend technologies and am currently exploring backend technologies. My goal is to become a Mern stack developer capable of building robust and scalable web applications. I have a curiosity to learn new things and the courage to face any challenges that come my way. I understand that the learning process is a journey, and I am fully committed to completing this journey with enthusiasm and dedication

PROJECTS

- Chat App

Developed a React.js and Firebase-based chat application with real-time messaging, contact management, group creation, member management, and user profile functionality

- E-commerce Website

Built an e-commerce platform using React and Firebase. Includes an admin dashboard for managing categories, products, orders, and users. On the user side, features like favoriting items, adding to cart, and order submission are available

- Blogging Website
